In this course we consider the contemporary dynamics of racialization in the U.S., with particular attention to how the past informs the present. Thus, in our inquiry we will trace the line from slavery, settler colonialism, and other exercises of militarized and racialized imperialism to today.

Students who register for the class in Spring 2021 are welcome to suggest readings and topic areas to the professor for possible adoption.